20 Ways to Block Mobile Attacks

Don’t let your guard down just because you’re on a mobile device. Be just as careful as you would be on a desktop!

1. Bluetooth
   - Disable automatic Bluetooth pairing.
   - Always turn it off when you don’t need it.

2. Smishing (phishing via SMS)
   - Don’t trust messages that attempt to get you to reveal any personal information.
   - Beware of similar tactics in platforms like What’s App, Facebook Messenger, Instagram, etc.
   - Treat messages the same way you would treat email, always think before you click.

3. Vishing (voice phishing)
   - Do not respond to telephone or email requests for personal/financial information. If you are concerned, call the financial institution directly—even if it looks like they are on the phone. Confer on the back of your credit card or on your monthly statement.
   - Never click on links in unsolicited commercial email.
   - Speak only with live people when providing account information, and only when you initiate the call.
   - Install software that can tell you whether you are on a secure or fake website.

4. Apps
   - Only use apps available in your device’s official store—NEVER download from a browser.
   - Beware of apps from unknown developers or those with limited/bad reviews.
   - Keep them updated to ensure they have the latest security.
   - If they’re no longer supported by your store, just delete.
   - Don’t grant administrator, or excessive privileges to apps unless you truly trust them.

5. Browser
   - Watch out for ads, giveaways and contests that seem too good to be true. Often these lead to phishing sites that appear to be legit.
   - Pay close attention to URLs. These are harder to verify on mobile screens, but it’s worth the effort.
   - Never save your login information when you’re using a web browser.

6. WiFi
   - Don’t allow your device to auto-pin unfamiliar networks.
   - Always turn off WiFi when you aren’t using it or don’t need it.
   - Never send sensitive information over WiFi unless you’re absolutely sure it’s a secure network.

When the MLK Tribute to be offered by the All American Jazz Collective and West Burlington High School Choir had to be cancelled due to weather, Dr. Daniel Pappas offered a playlist by email to the SCC community. That email is excerpted here:

Dear Campus Community,

Unfortunately, the weather prohibited us from performing our special tribute concert on this important Holiday. On behalf of all involved I wanted to at least share with you the contents of today’s program. I’ve included links to original recordings of the songs we intended on performing. We hope you take the time to read, listen, and reflect.

Nina Simone.  Mr. Bojangles  [link]
Louis Armstrong – Black and Blue  [link]
Mahalia Jackson – His Eye is on the Sparrow  [link]
Mahalia Jackson – Precious Lord, Take My Hand  [link]

On April 4, 1968, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated in Memphis. Three days later, Nina Simone performed at Westbury Music Fair on Long Island. That performance was recorded live and released later that year by RCA/Victor as ‘Nuff Said!

Today we will be performing two of the songs from that concert and introduce each piece with the words she spoke on that very day.

First is “Why? The King of Love is Dead”:  [link]
Our last number today is ‘Sunday in Savannah’, a song which bears no direct reference to King or his murder but ra-ther imagines a peaceful continuation of everyday life in a religious community, a practice, it implies, which King should have been able to pursue instead of having to take up the fight against an unnecessary evil. The longing here is not for what was but for what might have been had historical circumstances been different, had humankind been more tolerant, or had the dream that King foretold come to pass into reality. As with the previous song, here is Nina Simone’s introduction:

Glad to see you and happily surprised to see so many of you
We really didn’t expect anybody tonight, you know why.
Everybody knows everything, everything is everything.
But we’re glad that you’ve come to see us and hope that we can provide some kind of something for you.
This evening, this particular evening, this Sunday evening, at this particular time in 1968.
We hope that we can give you something, whatever it is that you need tonight.
Now, this song, if I had my way we would change the name of the city in the song, but the State is the same, which is Georgia.
So, I think, that he wouldn’t mind if we said Savannah instead of Atlanta.
It’s a song about Sunday in Savannah.  [link]
